Virginia Beach, VA – The U.S. Navy has awarded Klett Consulting Group, Inc. an indefinite-delivery/indefinite-quantity contract with the total potential value of $29.5 million in support of Naval Surface Warfare Center, Crane, Indiana. This contract will provide system engineering, operational testing, system integration, testing coordination and planning services to investigate opportunities to optimize and integrate the existing and projected rapid fielding testing requirements for new Joint Warfighting capabilities (defeat of improvised explosive devices, IO Range, Urban Training) from DoD and NSWC Crane supported programs. These programs have activities that include Joint Concept Technology Demonstrations (JCTD), Joint Testing (JT), Navy Continuous Training Environment (NCTE) and Joint Training (JT). NSWC Crane performs work in these programs (operational assessments for JCTD, JT for Information Operations/Electronic Warfare, Navy Training for ship radar systems and JT for Special Mission Projects) which are DoD Programs.

Klett Consulting Group is proud to be the first Service Disabled Veteran Owned Small Business (SDOVSB) to be awarded a contract with NSWC Crane and to have the second largest Seaport-E Award for a SDOVSB contract. “With an eye toward delivering value to our customer, we assembled a solid team to deliver innovative, cost effective and transformational capabilities to the warfighter,” said Mark Klett, President and CEO of Klett Consulting Group, Inc.

Klett Consulting Group is the prime contractor for this contract and assembled the team that includes Diversified Technology and Services Of Virginia, Inc. (DTSV) in Newport News, VA and Systems Applications International Corporation in San Diego, CA. This contract should complete work in 2013.

Established in 2002 and headquartered in Virginia Beach, Virginia, Klett Consulting Group, Inc.
